EDUCATIONAL FEATURES OF OHIO STATE FAIR—VIEW OF ADMINISTRATION BUILDING.

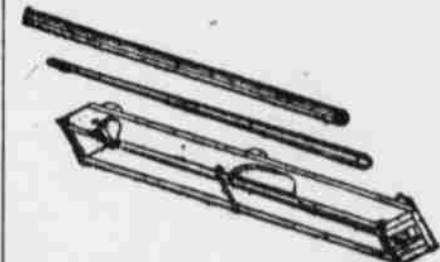

Education is the cardinal principle of Ohio's million dollar state exposition, and many are the lessons presented in the magnificent exhibits and displays throughout its seventeen distinct departments. Live stock is its leading feature, but agriculture, horticulture, women's work and manufacturers' displays are prominent, all combining to form an educational institution of the highest rank. Subservient to its educational purposes are its entertainment features, consisting of band concerts, pyrotechnic displays, free feature acts and the stupendous Spellingman shows. The exposition will this year be held in Columbus Aug. 30, 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3 and will be open both day and night.

MAKING FARM CONCRETE POST

Few Modifications of the Ordinary Molds Are Necessary to Make the Post Hollow.

To construct hollow re-enforced concrete fence posts, a few modifications of the ordinary mold are necessary, in addition to the core to be placed in the center of the post. The mold for an ordinary four-by-four-inch post, seven feet long, consists of a bottom, two sides and two end gates, all of which are held together by three iron clamps placed over the top of the sides after they are put together. The sides are held to the bottom by small dowel pins inserted in holes in the bottom, so that the sides may be readily removed, leaving the finished post lying on the base to harden. One end gate must have a two-inch hole through which the core may be withdrawn.

NOVEL TWO-PURPOSE RUNWAY

Horses and Cattle Pass from One Field to Another, But Hogs Kept in One Pasture.

Farmers who want to let horses and cattle run from one field to another and at the same time keep hogs in will find this device of value. Make an opening in fence and across it nail two 18-inch planks to posts or stakes 15 inches apart, says a writer in Missouri Valley Farmer. A hog can pass between them but it can not turn so as to jump over either plank, and the distance is great enough so that it can not jump over the two planks at once. Horses and cattle can go over without any trouble.

Good Shooting.

Sergeant Ernest Miller of the local company is leading all the members of the First Regiment team at the State shoot at Camp Perry now going on. He made 95 out of a possible 100 Tuesday. In the company team he also did the best work. Co. D has the honor of representing the First Regiment in the company competitions. The local boys got sixth place in this competition. The scores were as follows:

SAWBUCK FOR SAWING POLES

Directions for Making One That Requires Little Moving While Cutting the Log.

A sawbuck for sawing small logs and poles is easy of construction and is a handy contrivance on almost any farm. It is made of three pair of two-by-four pieces crossed and spiked together. These are turned bottom side up and two eight-inch stout boards are nailed in the crotch just as one would make a hog trough. Put the crossed pieces far enough apart so that at one end you can saw cord wood and place the third far enough away to saw two cuts between. In this way you can saw seven or eight times before moving the log, either with a bucksaw or cross-cut for two men.

WILL TEST THE HOG SERUM.

Maryland Live Stock Sanitary Board to Investigate Process Said to Immunize Swine.

The Maryland Live Stock Sanitary board proposes to test the serum recommended by the national government which is said to immunize hogs against the cholera and which, if as effective as is claimed, will save the farmers of Maryland millions of dollars, says the Baltimore American.

The serum is produced by the United States department of agriculture and has been tried by its officers with splendid results in other portions of the country. This has led Dr. Mackie, the state veterinarian, to believe that it might prove successful in Maryland, and he has arranged to begin the inoculation on a farm in Prince George county at once.

It is said by the officials of the board that there is but little more hog cholera in the state this year than usual; but the hot season always brings its loss to the farmers from this dread disease. Thousands of hogs die annually from cholera and should the new serum prove valuable the saving for Maryland hog-raisers will mean much to their prosperity.

Misses Ruth Elliston, of Cincinnati, and Grace Heller, of Bucyrus, were visiting Miss Bertha Charles, Sunday. Miss Charles left Tuesday for the Philippine island, where she will labor as a missionary under the direction of the Wesleyan College for Women, of Cincinnati.
